

Gillian Tett, FT: America's six key lessons for a euro Tarp?

 Gillian Tett, FT: America's six key lessons for a euro Tarp?

 Friday, 7 October 2011 |  European Affairs

For Gillian there are at least six key points, of which the last is good, which Europe needs to consider.

For Gillian there are at least six key points, of which the last is good, which Europe needs to consider:

- Size matters
- Co-ordination is crucial
- Excessive democracy does not always help
- Plans need to be flexible
- Stress tests only work if they address the visible points of stress that the public and markets care about!
- Of the USD 700 bn used in TARP in the US, "only" USD 50 bn has really been lost
